

Master's Program in Civil Law and Civil Procedure Law (Application-Oriented)

Program Information

Specialization:

- Civil Law and Civil Procedure Law
- Specialization Code: 8380101.04

Field of Study: Law

Degree Level: Master's

Degree Awarded: Master of Law

Institution: University of Law, Vietnam National University, Hanoi (VNU-UL)

Program Objectives

General Objective

The Application-Oriented Master's Program in Civil Law and Civil Procedure Law aims to train highly qualified professionals with advanced expertise in the application of civil and civil procedural law. The program provides modern and in-depth legal knowledge, systematic legal thinking, and proficient professional and complementary skills, enabling learners to identify and effectively address complex legal issues arising in professional practice.

Graduates are equipped to pursue professional careers in a wide range of organizations, including central and local government agencies, judicial bodies, law-making institutions, businesses, international organizations, non-governmental organizations, and institutions engaged in research and education in civil law and civil procedure law. The program also provides a foundation in legal thinking, knowledge, and skills for independent learning and research or further study at higher levels.

Specific Objectives

Knowledge

- Provide comprehensive, modern, and in-depth knowledge of civil law and civil procedure law, with a particular emphasis on practical knowledge to enable effective application of the law in professional practice.
- Develop systematic legal thinking to effectively identify and address complex practical issues arising in civil law and civil procedure law.
- Develop the ability to analyze, synthesize, compare, and evaluate theoretical knowledge and practical experience, as well as Vietnamese and foreign laws, in order to draw lessons and propose valuable recommendations and solutions for improving legislation and the effectiveness of law enforcement.

Skills

- Enable learners to effectively apply acquired knowledge to their professional activities and develop practical skills relevant to their work.
- Provide essential professional and complementary skills for legal practice, legal service provision, and participation in the development, improvement, dissemination, and legal education.

Autonomy and Responsibility

- Enable learners to independently orient their professional development toward diverse career positions; develop professional leadership capabilities and the ability to leverage collective expertise to effectively address practical issues ranging from simple to complex.
- Foster the ability to pursue independent learning, enhance professional qualifications, and continue to higher levels of education.
- Promote personal, professional, and social ethical standards, particularly the professional ethics expected of legal practitioners, together with a strong sense of responsibility, community service, and commitment to serving the country.

View the Detailed Program Curriculum Here