Program Objectives

General Objective

The Research-Oriented Master's Program in Economic Law aims to provide learners with advanced knowledge and expertise in economic law, encompassing comprehensive, up-to-date, and in-depth theoretical and practical knowledge. The program develops learners' research capabilities, professional skills, and qualities necessary to perform specialized work effectively and meet the demands of the labor market. It also provides a solid foundation in legal thinking, knowledge, and skills, enabling learners to pursue independent study and research or continue to higher levels of education.

Specific Objectives

Knowledge

- Provide in-depth theoretical and practical knowledge of economic law in Vietnam and internationally, while keeping learners up to date with modern legal developments in the business environment.
- Develop systematic legal thinking based on a broad and in-depth knowledge base, enabling learners to effectively identify and address legal issues in academic research and professional practice.

Skills

- Develop the skills necessary for conducting independent and innovative research into the theory and practice of economic law.
- Develop skills in providing legal advice and effectively applying economic law to professional tasks.
- Equip learners with the skills necessary to participate in the development and improvement of economic legislation.

Autonomy and Responsibility

- Develop learners into experts in economic law who can effectively undertake professional positions in government agencies, businesses, socio-political organizations, educational institutions, and research institutes.
- Foster personal, professional, and social ethics in accordance with the standards expected of legal professionals.
